Infinite Football

From Romanian New Wave master Corneliu Porumboiu (Police, Adjective)

Nov. 9 through 18 at MoMI. Schedule and Tickets.

After fracturing his fibula in a 1987 game, former Romanian soccer star and current bureaucrat Laurențiu Ginghină now dreams of radically revising his beloved sport's rules to reduce injuries and, in turn, revolutionize it. The latest from Romanian New Wave master Corneliu Porumboiu is a hilarious and incisive portrait of personal obsession. Po-faced Porumboiu plays the straight man to Ginghină's desk-jockey dreamer, encountering increasingly outlandish proposals that diminish in plausibility as they increase in emotional and philosophical resonance. In trying to align sport with utopian visions, a man confronts the unyielding parameters of life. A Grasshopper Film release. (Dir. Corneliu Porumboiu. 2018, 70 mins. In Romanian with English subtitles.)

— Richard Brody, The New Yorker

Also showing: Porumboiu's 2014 film The Second Game on Nov. 11 and 17.

Of Fathers and Sons

Winner, Grand Jury Prize for World Documentary, 2018 Sundance Film Festival
Nov. 16 through Dec. 2 at MoMI. Schedule and Tickets.

Talal Derki in person Nov. 16 (6:00 p.m.) and Nov. 17 (7:00 p.m.) shows

After his Sundance award-winning documentary Return to Homs, Talal Derki returned to his Syrian homeland where he gained the trust of a radical Islamist family, sharing their daily life for over two years. His camera focuses primarily on the children, providing an extremely rare insight into what it means to grow up with a father whose only dream is to establish an Islamic caliphate. Thirteen-year-old Osama and his younger brother Ayman both love, admire, and obey their father, but while Osama seems content to follow the path of jihad, Ayman wants to go back to school. Of Fathers and Sons is a work of unparalleled intimacy that captures the chilling moment when childhood dies and jihadism is born. A Kino Lorber release. (Dir. Talal Derki. 2017, 99 mins. In Arabic with English subtitles.)

"An admirably audacious feat of documentarian access."—Neil Young, The Hollywood Reporter

Inquiring Nuns

First ever theatrical release of the newly restored film on its 50th anniversary
Nov. 23 through Dec. 2 at MoMI. Schedule and Tickets.

Gordon Quinn in person for all shows Nov. 23 through 25

A fascinating work of cinema verite by Gordon Quinn and Gerald Temaner, co-founders of Kartemquin Films, and scored by Philip Glass, Inquiring Nuns follows two young nuns as they crisscross Chicago, approaching strangers on the street, as well as in parking lots, the Art Institute, and churches, asking the simple question, "Are you happy?" They meet a lonely girl, a happy mother, young lovers, hippie musicians, a sociologist, and even the actor Lincoln Perry, better known as Stepin Fetchit, now on hard times. Each interview is a complete and thoughtful piece of the person's life, with no intercutting. The humor and sadness of these honest encounters lift the film beyond its experimental conceit into a serious and moving inquiry into contemporary society and the circumstances under which people examine their lives. A Kartemquin Films and Argot Pictures release. (Dirs. Gordon Quinn, Gerald Temaner. 1968, 66 mins. Newly restored 16mm print.)

"Inquiring Nuns is the closest thing to a 'pure' documentary that I have ever seen." — William Routt, Film Quarterly, 1968

"A lovely, weirdly potent time capsule... a single, polyphonic ode to late '67 Chicago and what was on the mind of its collective citizenry." — Michael Phillips, Chicago Tribune, 2016

Also showing are other groundbreaking "man on the street" films from the 1960s: Jean Rouch and Edgar Morin's Chronicle of a Summer (1961) and Chris Marker and Pierre Lhomme's Le Joli Mai (1963).

Tickets for New Releases are $15 ($11 seniors and students / $7 Museum members / Free for Silver Screen members and above). All tickets are available in advance online at movingimage.us and include same-day Museum admission.
